who last night challenged him to fight for the heavyweight enamploushly, had no chouse of getting a fight, nor had "any other while man."

After declaring that he did not be so whither he could get into condition again to meet Jack Johnson, Jeffressald: "It Johnson had been a white man."

Increased fee the south that Johnson would like to arrange a match with Jeffries now to be decided next fall or winter, so that he could have the henceft of the advertising when he reaches England, about the first of April, but it is also a clinch that the negro cannot hurry the boltermaker. In fact, Johnson as champion is not called upon to challenge Jeffries under the rules. On the contrary, he must wait until Jeff is ready to talk business. But in the event of a match Johnson will have the right to manie terms, such as a 55 and 25 per cent. division of the purse, which it is said he will maist upon.

Johnson will have the right to mane terms, such as a 75 and 25 per cent. division of the purse, which it is said he will insist upon.

Ketchell is Anxioux.

Mesnwhite Stanley Ketchell, the middleweight champion, through his manager, Willus Britt, made it known yesterday that he was ready to fight Johnson at short notice, and that in a finish he'd take a crack at Jeffries or Kaufman. But he didn't say a wors about a maxup were langious and thereby hangs a tale. Exer since Ketchel won back his title by stopping Psyke in California Langford has been camping on his trail.

Ketchel has refused point blank to meet Langford under any circumstances, but has falled to give a plausible reason. ARE RUNNING AWAY

Have Almost Nineteen-Mile Lead

Johnson will be champion for as many years as Jeffries held the title, at any rate. Johnson is not afraid to meet Jeffries.

Fitzpatrick read in detail the interview given the Associated Press at New York last night by Jeffries. He faid Jeffries was underrating Johnson.

"There is only one white man who has any right in the 'ing with Johnson, and that is Jeffries,' said Fitzpatrick. "But I don't think that even Jeffries could heat Jack. For Corbett to fight Johnson would be ridictious, Ketchel is altogether too small. For second choice after Jeffries, I would select Jim Barry, of Chicago but really be wouldn't have a chance. Johnson's former manager bears the big colored man no lit will, declaring with a shrug of his shoulders that it was impossible for any man to handle Johnson after he gained libe title, Johnson has wanted since them to be his own hoss absolutely, though Fitzpatrick declared that he understood the champion's white wife would assist in arranging matches for him.

Fitzpatrick left this afternoon for Beattle en route to San Francisco, whence he goes to New York.

Regarding his fight with Burns, Jack Johnson said to day that no proposition was made to him to lay down to Burns. But he added: "I know, though, that Referee McIntosh was supposed to be "ixed" to give Farms all he could."

LAW STEPS IX, NEW YORK, March 11.—Averaging a fraction over five miles an hour, Cibot and Orphee, the French runners, who are leading in the six-day goas-you-please race at Madison Square Garden, are gradually increasing the distance between themselves and their nearest competitors. At a late hour to-night the Frenchmen had almost a nineteen-mile lead, and as they are running in good form, the trainers picked them as the likely winners of the race, barring accidents. There is 770 miles one lap, made in 19.2, will be beaten.

Strong Yiddish Play.

Typifying a realism that is as sad as it is sometimes true the story of "Yiddeles Hariz." a Yiddish drama, presented at the Academy last night, is one that would appeal with forceful strength to any audience, whether it were of English-speaking people of only of those who speak the language of the play. The plot is simple—a piece of life placed on the stage. It tells the story of a young and knocent girl, married by her parent to an unsophisticated farmer and the result to be expected from the mating of youthful spirit and ambition to one who is without either and content with his dreams of life and love.

In a real following the competing automobiles turned turtle in Mariboro, G. B. Blake, of Boston, was painfully sightly hurt.

PINEHURST, N. Forced into the marriage by the dependency of her family. Floreine, the chief female character, is afterwards urged by a scheming aunt. Kraintze, played by Miss Sober, to get possession of her husband's property and then establish her freedom, without regard for the marital relation. She gard for the marital relation, Sh meets Robert Goldman (Mr. Bloom), gard for the marital relation. She meets Robert Goldman (Mr. Bloom), a New York dude, and soon succumbs to his artifices.

Their relations are discovered by the jealous husband, Max Gabel, who, still trusting, still doubting, always calls in the girl's family to witness her faults. But, up to the climax, she is ever ready, with the aid of her aunt, to dupe the husband and his family. At the last, though, her falsity is discovered, and the fond husband, now turned into a tiger, waits for her in her roof, and, after the upbraiding, which follows, kills her because, as he declares, he loves her and is unable to give ner up.

He had surrendered all, and had lost all he had surrendered. He had nothing to live for, and the thought of life without her wrecked his soul.

All the language of the play is Yiddish, a jargon which is made up of nearly every language under the sun. Its chief component parts, however, are German and Russian.

The scene is laid in Greenville, N. J. where there is located a Yiddish colony. The play is powerful, but without moral tone. Indeed, it rather smacks of things that are better left to the imagination than to depiction. It has a strong tang of the immoral for its issues are between the moral and the immoral. It has no outlet, no climax, except through death, and the killing of the young wife rather relieves an overstrained situation than otherwise.

The company is excellent, the whole cast, made up as it is entirely of Yid.

otherwise.

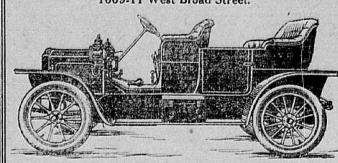

The company is excellent, the whole cast, made up as it is entirely of Yiddish players, being exceptionally strong, Considering the nature of the play and its novelty, the house was well filled, most of those present neing experts in the language.

The same company will be here again in a few weeks with a new play written by the same author. Max Gabel, who stars in his own "Yideles Hartz."

MODEL O, 20 HORSEPOWER

The White Steamer possesses so many points of superiority over other types of automobiles that any one who purchases a car without first investigating the White is acting with only a partial understanding of the possibilities of automobile construction. The engine of the new White Car is fitted with the Joy type of valve mechanism. As a result of this new construction, this engine is the most compact ever put into an automobile, and it contains fewer parts, and is, therefore, simpler than any other automobile engine. The White is unapproached by any other automobile for perfection of design, simplicity, quietness and smoothness of running. It is odorless and smokeless, and presents a striking example of a thoroughbred. It is in a class by itself, and is the distinctly American machine.

THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT, the most discriminating of purchasers, owns more White Steamers than all other makes combined. The up-keep of a White costs no more than that of a four or six-cylinder gas car of the same capacity.
